Marriage is hard": sober thoughts for a time when movies and television tell us that love is supposed to be romantic and fun. In this eclectic blend of playful and earnest storytelling, social commentary, and fierce argument, Kurt Armstrong offers an up-close look at real-life marriage and the countless ways it differs from what the advertisers tell us it should be. With wisdom, wit, and profound honesty, he explores the aching beauty of love, the ongoing struggle to maintain vows, and the reality of death as the finishing line of covenant. "Even if love one day fills my heart full of grief," says Armstrong, "it is still the only thing worth living for." This moving, honest, heartfelt look at real-life marriage will strike a chord with single men and women, young couples, and seasoned veterans of married life. For the Love of Food the Diet That Works Lulu.com This is a book that offers the reader an easy to use and easy to understand weight loss plan developed by a professional nutritionist. Advertisers have historically promoted food in distinctly gendered terms, returning repeatedly to themes that associated shopping and cooking with women. Foremost among them was that, regardless of the actual work involved, women should serve food to demonstrate love for their families. In identifying shopping and cooking as an expression of love, ads helped to both establish and reinforce the belief that kitchen work was women's work, even as women's participation in the labor force dramatically increased. Alternately flattering her skills as a homemaker and preying on her insecurities, advertisers suggested that using their products would give a woman irresistible sexual allure, a happy marriage, and healthy children. Ads also promised that by buying and making the right foods, a woman could help her family achieve social status, maintain its racial or ethnic identity, and assimilate into the American mainstream. Advertisers clung tenaciously to this paradigm throughout great upheavals in the patterns of American work, diet, and gender roles. To discover why, Food Is Love draws on thousands of ads that appeared in the most popular magazines of the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries, including the Ladies' Home Journal, Good Housekeeping, Ebony, and the Saturday Evening Post. The book also cites the records of one of the nation's preeminent advertising firms, as well as the motivational research advertisers utilized to reach their customers. Eat what You Love Love what You Eat : how to Break Your Eat-repent-repeat Cycle Greenleaf Book Group May helps you rediscover when, what, and how much to eat without restrictive rules. With the hope that it would help them address these situations on their own. This book will also points out reasons why each person should develop the ability to become self-awareness. It also has been designed to guide in the development and or learning to become self-aware. That will create several changes in those that show an interest, to change their character, within their family structure, with their friends and most of all on the environment they live in. Somewhat like a rippling effect in one's life. Causing those to become aware of their responsibilities and realizing that there are consequences for their actions. Another reason for designing this book was the hoping that those that read it would gain the needed insight each of us need to become self-aware and will value them. Giving each reader the unique opportunity to conceive several dreams that would change the way they live their lives, then to empower themselves to set goals and fulfill them. That will lead to rethinking their views on matters of concern. Food for thought has been designed to increase my chances to reach out to kids and share the possibilities. That are to consider in one's life. Along with the ability to create a different point of view of themselves and how to live their lives in general. To also know that the insights and words of wisdom that I share with each of them is to also understand that there is more to gain from these few moments. This books focus is to inspire today's youth to become self empowered. At first it was for my follow Latinos, but at this point it has gone beyond them and now to today's youth and young adults. It's also my dream that one day this book be used in a school setting, So that those that read this book can go over the reasoning behind several of the message in this book to discuss their point of views as they come to mind and address them. These issues are important. The hope is that with this change it will assist them in becoming an active member in today society and enjoy the many opportunities that it has to offer us all. For the Love of Wood/For the Love of Food Author House Two books in one! Experience growing up in a loving and boisterous Italian family from Brooklyn. Can you imagine having the vision to see a car in a block of wood, a church steeple in a burned out Roman candle or an entire wall-to-wall library from discarded window shutters? The only person I ever met that could was my Dad. ??? I want to publicly thank both sets of my grandparents for coming to America on what was nothing less than blind faith, exactly when they did and enduring the hardships that I can only imagine; or else I wouldnt be here right now. However, My Mom is the real reason Im here. The Call of the Child Cultivating Peace in a Climate of Conflict Wipf and Stock Publishers Jesus stepped into this world, seemingly weak and foolish, demonstrating the heart of a Father with a transformational perspective. His goal was to bring many sons and daughters to glory--to invite us out of our deceptive "reality" into a strong family likeness with his and our true Father. It is a calling to relationships based on the Father's love rather than on value through performance; a calling to love enemies, to bless the wicked, and to gain victory through loss. In the midst of the division and fragmentation so prevalent around us, the Call of the Child is to be peacemakers who transform our families, communities, and nations. The book you are holding first lays a foundation for seeing like a peacemaker and then gives practical insight into a dozen different realms of peacemaking. Love to Stay Sex, Grace, and Commitment Abingdon Press Draws on an extensive survey of couples and singles, wisdom from the Bible, and stories from the author's own ministry and marriage to explore what it takes to create and sustain healthy, meaningful romantic relationships across the course of a lifetime. Eat, Pray, Love One Woman's Search for Everything A&C Black The Number One international bestseller, Eat, Pray Love is a journey around the world, a quest for spiritual enlightenment and a story for anyone who has battled with divorce, depression and heartbreak. The Holy Peshitta Bible Translated ("God Is Love" Edition) Lulu.com The Peace Perspective First Edition Design Pub. What parent does not want to see their children have a life of inner peace and love? I believe inner peace and love is the greatest gift we can give our children. A peace within leads to a greater love of oneself and that love helps us to have a higher self-esteem. It is with this higher self-esteem that our children can best deal with the many challenges life has to offer. We all want to give our children the best chance for success in life, but what is the best way to make this success possible? About the author - Mike Markovski has taught a children's self-esteem class for 15 years while working as a Controller in the accounting field. The information provided in this book has come from his practical experience of teaching, coaching, raising children, and from years of reading positive thinking books. This book is from the perspective of a concerned parent of three grown sons, who hopes his unique perspective of life will make a difference in the world. Many books are available on the topic of peace, self-esteem, and parenting. This book is different in that it offers a perspective from a non-technical point of view. The goal of this book is to inspire and motivate the reader to start the process of finding a peace within. By finding more peace within, we can more easily share this important quality with our children. The Peace Perspective is one man's view of how we can make a difference in the world. Just by raising our children's inner peace and self-esteem, we can make our world a more peaceful and loving place
